RUSSELL OUTRAISES HILGENBERG FOR 51ST ASSEMBLY SEAT

SAUK CITY – According to campaign finance reports filed yesterday with Wisconsin's Government Accountability Board, Nathan Russell, candidate for the 51st Assembly District, outraised his opponent for the seat. From January 1 until July 30, Russell garnered more than $13,000 in support from local residents of the 51st Assembly District nearly $1000 more than his opponent, incumbent Representative Steve Hilgenberg.

Russell said his fundraising victory is due to citizens' desire to have realistic solutions to growing our economy, lowering the cost of health care and improving our local schools. "I'm very humbled by the groundswell of local, bipartisan support our campaign has received. Whether it is talking with residents at their door or meeting with them at community events, I have seen a true desire by residents of the 51st Assembly District to have a fresh voice represent their interest in the state legislature," said Russell.

Over the six month reporting period, Russell was honored to accept support from more than 190 individual donors. Russell is proud that his supporters have become active in local political change. "More than sixty percent of these individuals have not previously given to other assembly campaigns. This is the type of grassroots campaign that will lead to change in Madison."
